This Workshop would be led by Magdalene Jeyarathnam (MSW, PhD Candidate; Director, Indian Institute of Psychodrama), an experienced and dynamic psychodramatist.

Eric Miller (PhD in Folklore, MSc in Psychology; Director, World Storytelling Institute) would tell and lead discussions about the Workshop's fairytale.

Workshop Description:

In this Workshop we would work with "The Handless Maiden", a fairytale collected by the Grimm brothers in Germany in the early 1800s. Archetypal (universally-familiar) situations, relationships, characters, and emotions in this story would be identified and explored. Through Psychodrama we would seek to enact and experience the issues, conflicts, and choices of the characters of the story, and we would seek to discover related elements in our own lives. In the process we would increase our awareness of various perspectives. We might also gain more empathy and compassion towards, and understanding of, ourselves and those around us.
