Indian Institute of Psychodrama

Empowering people to help themselves

FACULTY

Ms. Magdalene Jeyarathnam is the first Psychodramatist to be trained in India. She uses Psychodrama to work with individuals, couples and groups. Magdalene is the Founder and Director of the Indian Institute of Psychodrama, which is the first Psychodrama training institute in India. She uses Psychodrama to promote mental health with several marginalised communities, such as sex workers, children infected and affected by HIV, people living with HIV, and LGBTQI+ people. She is completing 30 years as a Group Psychotherapist. The American Society of Group Psychotherapy & Psychodrama (ASGPP) recently bestowed the Neil Passariello award on Magdalene for her work with Psychodrama. Magdalene is currently completing her doctoral study regarding ways of improving mental health through the use of Psychodrama and other Creative Arts.

Dr. Eric Miller is the Director of the World Storytelling Institute, and is the Assistant Director of the East West Center for Counselling and Training. He was trained in Folklore in Philadelphia (PhD in Folklore from the University of Pennsylvania). And he was trained in Psychology in Chennai (MSc in Psychology from the University of Madras, and One-year Course in Psychological Counselling from the Chennai Counsellors Foundation).

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

In this Workshop we would work with two or more fairytales. Archetypal (universally-familiar) situations, relationships, characters, and emotions in these stories would be identified and explored. Through Psychodrama we would enact and experience the issues, conflicts, and choices of the characters of the stories, and we would seek to discover related elements in our own lives. In the process we would increase our awareness of various perspectives. We might also gain more empathy and compassion towards, and understanding of, ourselves and those around us.
